TOWN COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Gettysburg Town Councilmen Act on Conditions in Town. Close Third Street and Open Fourth. Other Business Transacted.

The town council met on Monday evening and considered a number of important matters with regard to streets and pavements. The passing of the ordinance for paving several streets in town was held over to the next regular meeting on April second.

Before the ordinance was passed providing for twelve and ten foot pavements in town D. P. McPherson, Esq., presented a petition asking that in some of the "suburban" portions the width be allowed to remain at nine feet, the reasons given being the comparatively small amount of travel and the fact that the pavements in those sections of town are not obstructed by porches and steps as in the central part. It was explained by council that in these outlying sections it was not necessary to build walks as wide as provided in the ordinance, that some of the space could be taken up with grass plots, as is done on Broadway street, Springs avenue and elsewhere in town. The ordinance was then passed.

Relative to Mr. McPherson's request the ordinance committee was instructed to present an ordinance providing for pavements of less width in the portions of town where houses are not erected on the building line.

Charles S. Duncan, Esq., appeared before council to protest against the condition of Lincoln avenue from Carlisle street to Washington street. The Highway Committee informed Mr. Duncan that they had in mind improvements to that street and council gave authority for the necessary repairs.

The ordinance providing for the vacation of part of Third street and the opening of Fourth street from York street to the north side of the Western Maryland Railway right-of-way were passed, all of the seven members present voting for the measures. Messrs. Tawney and Stock were absent. The other ordinance relative to Fourth street will be acted upon later.

Mr. Codori reported the alley at the Reaser Furniture Company plant in very bad condition. The Highway Committee was given authority to fix same providing it was found that the thoroughfare had been ordained.

A request was received for a tungsten light on North Washington street between the railroad and the college campus. Action deferred.

The ordinance providing for the annexation of certain Seminary property west of town was presented, adopted and ordered advertised to come up for final action on May seventh.

Dissatisfaction with the present method of taxing battlefield hackmen was reported by Mr. Trostle who said that two of those engaged in the business had said they had positively paid their last license under the present method. The conduct of hackmen was also discussed and the ordinance committee instructed to present an ordinance covering these two subjects.

NEW CHECKING SYSTEM

Beginning July first a new baggage checking system will be in force on the Western Maryland Railway which will mean much to those who do any considerable amount of traveling. Trunks, in addition to coming within a certain weight limit, will also have to be under a certain size, over which excess will be charged. A number of other changes are to be put in force, among them a charge for a valuation over $100 on a piece of baggage. Storage charges will be strictly enforced. A charge will be made for checking bicycles and other regulations of the Trunk Line Association of which the Western Maryland is now a member will be put in force.

TAX COLLECTOR FROCK RESIGNS

After Twenty Years of Active Service as Tax Collector of Gettysburg. Duties too Arduous. Says Younger Man is Needed.

William H. Frock, for the past twenty years tax collector for the borough of Gettysburg, has announced his intention to resign from that office. A number of local residents are aspiring for the position which he relinquishes after a long term of service and the candidates are busy circulating petitions for their appointment.

Mr. Frock gives as his reasons for resigning that he has held the office long enough, that there are a number of bothersome details in the business with which he does not care to be burdened any more, and that a younger man should have the work.

Duplicates for several years have not yet been settled and it is Mr. Frock's intention to keep these and to see that they are settled unless his successor is willing to take up that task. He will not receive this year's duplicates, however, and they will go to his successor as soon as approved.

There is a large amount of outstanding tax on all the accounts and the retiring collector announces that he will give until May 15 for payment to be made. Failure to make payment prior to that time will result in liens being entered against property holders and arrests in other cases.

WILD CATS RAID ROOSTS

A family of wild cats have put in their appearance, around Pen Mar, causing great depletion in the poultry yards and consternation among residents in that vicinity.

Last week Fred Gallion was awakened by the shrieks of several of the animals. Putting on his clothes and arming himself with several pistols he took a lantern and started for his hen house to investigate.

The wild cats, seeing the light, ran off and did not appear again, but at intervals during the night their wailing could be heard in the distance.

Recently, it was reported three of the wild cats swooped down on the place of John Diehl, tenant on Dr. J. B. Amerson's farm, a short distance from Pen Mar Park, and attempted to raid the hen roost. Mr. Diehl and his two sons, hearing the commotion, seized guns and believing that chicken thieves were at work hurried to the hen house, but were so frightened at the sight of three of the largest wild cats ever seen in that section scurrying away they forgot to fire until the raiders had gotten so far away in the darkness as to make a very poor target. None of the shots took effect.

For two days thereafter a diligent search was made by the Messrs. Diehl to locate the haunts of the animals, but their efforts have proved unsuccessful.

TALLEST SOLDIER OF CIVIL WAR DEAD

Washington, Pa. March 18.—Because no hearse in Washington is big enough to accommodate the large coffin built for William P. Bane, the body of the tallest man who served in the civil war, will be carried to the cemetery here Wednesday afternoon in a draped wagon.

Bane was seven feet four inches in height and weighed 300 pounds. Bane was known from coast to coast wherever a G. A. R. national encampment was held. It was Bane whom Lincoln addressed at Gettysburg, saying, "Will that fellow please get down off the stump."—North American.

PEACH CROP IS RUINED

Inspection of Trees Shows that Severe January Weather Did Irreparable Damage. Older Trees will Recover.

Reports from the fruit growers in the upper end of the county state that the peach crop for this year was practically ruined by the extreme cold weather of January.

It was at first thought that the trees were only slightly injured and that the entire crop was not destroyed, but as long as the wood was frozen it was impossible to ascertain to what degree the cold had wrought injury. However since the weather has become warmer, examinations show that the bark has become loosened from the wood and that the wood beneath is black. The flow of sap is entirely cut off and the trees must die.

The old trees will not suffer permanently from the effects of January's cold weather and next year they should be in good condition again. Much of the nursery stock is permanently ruined above the ground and the only thing left for the nurserymen of the county, of which there are a number, is to cut off the trees at the ground. The roots will sprout if this is done, says one of the orchardists.

In the big peach growing section about Smithsburg similar reports are being gathered. Twenty seven degrees below zero was the coldest weather reported there and it seems to have done irreparable damage.

The first investigations were made by Benjamin Snyder who has a large orchard and finds that nearly all of his trees are dead. Daniel Smith also examined his trees and finds many that will die, although the entire orchard will not be lost. Others find that many of their trees are damaged and some will be lost, but the higher the lay of the land the better the trees seem to have fared.

STOCK PERISHES IN FLAMES

Four horses, seven head of cattle and a number of hogs were burned to death in a destructive fire which Sunday morning consumed the new bank barn on the John Smith farm, one mile north of Graceham, two miles from Thurmont, tenanted by Charles Haines.

The men had been down at the barn to milk and just about a quarter of seven o'clock the flames were discovered, after considerable headway had been made. None of the stock could be saved except one horse and two colts, while practically everything in the barn was destroyed, including machinery, a new rubber tire buggy and other things, which had been stored there preparatory to moving Mr. Haines has tenanted the farm for just about a year and will leave next month to live on the Charles Remsburg farm at Lake View.

It is understood that the loss is partly covered by insurance. The barn was erected just last year.

OVER NIGHT

The laugh-producing comedy, "Over Night," is coming to Colonial Theatre, Hanover, Thursday, March 28th, direct from the Shubert Theatre, Boston, where for nine weeks it played to capacity houses. The engagement was all the more remarkable from the fact that it was during the months of July, August and September, when the thermometer was capering around the 100 degree mark. From the first rise of the curtain to the final "Over Night" is one long succession of laughs, and truthfully it is named as "one long lingering laugh."

WARNS CONGRESS CANDIDATES

A notice warning candidates for Congress that the act of August 19, 1911, requires the filing of a statement of campaign contributions and expenses fifteen days before a primary convention, is about to be issued jointly by Representative Burke, of South Dakota, acting chairman of the Republican Congress committee, and Representative Lloyd, of Missouri, chairman of the Democratic Congress committee.

The law provides that evasion or violation of the requirement as indicated shall be punishable by fine and imprisonment. This would mean that the right of a successful candidate to hold his seat would be denied if it was shown that he had failed to comply with the act of August 19, 1911.

CONVICTS SLAIN OR CAPTURED

Posses Run Down Nebraska
Desperadoes.

UNWILLING AIDE IS DEAD

One Murderer Captured, Another Commits Suicide and the Third Is Killed in Battle.

Omaha, Neb., March 19.—Two posses made short work of the three convicts, Taylor, Dowd and Morley, who escaped Friday from the state penitentiary near Lincoln, after slaying the warden of the penitentiary and two of his assistants.

As a result of a fierce battle between the former and the convicts, between Greta and Chalco, two of the convicts, Taylor and Dowd, and Roy Blunt, a young farmer, whom the convicts forced to take them in his wagon in an effort to escape, are dead, and Morley is a prisoner.

Despite the use of rifles and revolvers by the escaped convicts, apparently none of the members of the posses was badly hurt. Taylor was killed in the fighting and Dowd, it is reported, committed suicide when he found that escape was impossible. Then Morley signified that he had enough of it and surrendered.

In the battle between the posses and the convicts the posses were armed with rifles and the bandits with revolvers. Two posses engaged the men at once, one having come from Omaha and the other from Plattsmouth.

Blunt, the young farmer, who had been forced to drive the desperadoes, was found dead, but whether from the bullets of the convicts or the officers, was not determined.

The three convicts, for whom sheriffs and soldiers have been searching since Saturday, appeared at the Blunt farm, three miles north of Louisville, Neb. They approached the Blunt home and demanded that Blunt haul them to Albright, a small station near Omaha. This Blunt refused to do, and they started away and then went back to the farm house. They told Mrs. Blunt they were escaped convicts.

Finally by threats of death they forced Roy Blunt to hitch up and start with them toward Albright. News of their whereabouts was taken to the searching parties, and a special train was started from Omaha carrying a large and heavily armed posse. Before this had arrived a special train came up from Plattsmouth and the manhunt was on in earnest.

The Plattsmouth posse, it is understood, came up to the convicts and their unwilling farmer driver in a cornfield. A big fight opened quickly and many shots were exchanged. Then the second posse came up and the convicts were practically surrounded.

Finally a rifle ball ended Taylor's life, and Dowd, despairing of making his way through the closely drawn net, fired a bullet into his brain. That ended the battle, Morley quickly offering to surrender. He was closely guarded and started on his way to prison.

The three murderers spent Friday night, all day Saturday and part of Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall, on a farm five miles northeast of Havelock. After tying Mr. and Mrs. Hall so securely that they thought they could not liberate themselves, they cut the telephone wires and left the house. During their stay they compelled the persons in the house to serve them with meals and permitted no one to leave.

After leaving the Hall home the men went to Prairie, obtained a hand-car and went to Murocko, where they robbed two stores, taking arms, ammunition and clothing. Later they were seen walking the railroad tracks between South Bend and Meadow, and later were seen passing the home of T. P. Ball, two and a half miles west of Meadow.

CRYING BABY SAVES FAMILY

Awakened by Screams, Parents Find
Home in Flames.

Shenandoah, Pa., March 19.—Smoke awoke Corinne, the two-year-old daughter of Joseph Paine.

Her screams aroused the parents, who found their home burning fiercely, the lower floor being a mass of flames. The family of six barely had time to escape in their night clothing.

Michael Paine and Anthony Galles, two boarders, jumped from the second story window. The fire spread to the next house, the residence of Frank Galloway, who saved much of his clothing and furniture before his home was also ruined.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY BILL

Cummins Wants Nominees Chosen at the Polls Instead of Conventions.

Washington, March 19.—Senator Cummins, of Iowa, introduced in the senate a nationwide presidential primary bill, which would be to do away with local, state and national conventions.

The plan is to have a national primary July 8, to be followed each four years with a primary upon the second Monday of July. The results of such primary election would be canvassed by a "National Board for Primary Elections," and the candidates of each political party receiving the greatest number of votes would be certified by that board as the candidate to be voted upon in the November elections.

The bill would require primary elections of candidates for president, vice president and presidential electors. The names of the candidates on the primary ballot, under the bill, would be arranged in separate columns for each party, with one column headed "Independent of party."

AN EPIDEMIC OF THROAT DISEASE

Baltimore Advised to Boil
All Milk.

New York, March 19.—A dispatch from Baltimore says that physicians had advised the public to boil all milk until an epidemic of "a peculiar throat disease" now prevalent in that city has subsided.

The disease was described as somewhat similar to tonsillitis, but more persistent. Dr. William H. Park, director of the research laboratory of the New York department of health, said that he suspected the disease to be septic sore throat. It was epidemic in Boston last summer, and among 2000 cases there were about fifty deaths. Outbreaks of the same nature have been reported from Europe in recent years. The only American visitation that Dr. Park knows of, besides the one in Baltimore, occurred in a Hudson river town six years ago. Dr. Park remembers the Hudson river epidemic, as he was called in to locate the source of the disease.

He found several patients of a private school suffering from infectious sore throat and a rash comparable to the rash of scarlet fever. Dr. Park, having eliminated in his mind every possible cause except the milk supply, went to the dairy that supplied the school, inspected the cows and found one that also had a bad case of sore throat. The cow was killed and there was no more illness at the school.

TEDDY, JR., NEAR DEATH

Acts as Volunteer Fireman and Is Almost Suffocated.

San Francisco, Cal., March 19.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was threatened with suffocation while aiding volunteer firemen in putting out a blaze at the suburban residence of Charles Clark, son of former Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana.

With several other guests, young Roosevelt and his wife were seated in the drawing room when the burglar alarm in the house began to ring. Smoke was seen coming from the basement where defective wiring had started a fire. An alarm was telephoned to San Mateo and thirty-five volunteer firemen responded.

Roosevelt mounted to the roof, but was ordered down by one of the firemen. He tried to descend by way of the attic, which was choked with the smoke. There he was discovered groping about by a fireman and escorted to safety.

Slayer of Husband Insane.

Pottsville, Pa., March 19.—Mrs. Helen Motchick, of Shenandoah, was ordered by the court to be sent to a lunatic asylum. A year ago the woman shot and killed her husband, but was acquitted on the ground of self-defense. Jailed on a minor charge, the woman has become a raving maniac, saying her departed husband's spirit haunts her.

Predicts 100 Majority For Home Rule.

London, March 19.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party, presiding at a St. Patrick's Day banquet, said that the home rule bill would pass the house of commons by more than 100 majority, and inside of two years would become law.

The Kansas state board of health has adopted a rule which provides that when eggs that have been in cold storage two weeks or more or have been packed in any preserving substance are sold at wholesale or retail they shall bear a label stating the length of time they have been in storage. This would seem to be simple justice to the strictly fresh egg and should give Kansas hens some incentive to lay eggs during the winter months.

MINERS WILL MEET OWNERS HALF WAY

But Operators Must Have a Tangible Proposition.

Seranton, Pa., March 19.—District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, announced that in the interest of peace the anthracite mine workers are prepared to meet the operators half way, but not until the operators come forward with a tangible proposition, carrying with it concessions.

One officer said the Cleveland meeting on next Monday will decide on the miners' future policy. The anthracite leaders will guide that meeting, he added, and if there is to be peace it must come between now and Monday next. The miners will take no step for another meeting with the operators; the latter, the miners say, must make the next move.

While negotiations between the anthracite operators and the miners' union have not been renewed, they are still a possibility of a peace pact growing out of the deadlock.

It is recalled that when the previous three-year agreement expired March 31, 1909, the United Mine Workers of America and the operators had been at loggerheads for three months. They could not come to terms. The operators declined to recognize the union, a feature of the negotiations that was the bone of contention. The agreement expired and there was no contract to start with April 1.

BAER FOR PEACE

Baer Willing to Meet Representatives of the Miners Again.

Philadelphia, March 19.—George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad and of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, declared that he was willing to meet the miners in another conference.

"The operators are ready at any time to have another conference with the miners," Mr. Baer said. "We are willing to listen to any suggestions that may straighten out the situation with the miners again."

President Baer's announcement, it is believed, will result in another conference of the miners and the operators this week.

STRIKE AT SHAMOKIN

Miners Quit Because Company Would Not Sell Them Coal.

Shamokin, Pa., March 19.—Eight hundred employees of the Scott shaft, owned by the Mineral Railroad & Mining company, went on strike because the company refused to sell them pea coal, asserting that it had to fill out-standing foreign orders for that size before selling to the miners.

It is feared that more collieries will be closed down by the miners going on strike for the same reason. Strike fever is spreading in the Shamokin region.

TAFT FAVORS REAL PRIMARY

He Welcomes Preference Vote if Safeguarded.

HAD BUSY DAY IN BOSTON

Raps Decision Recall and "Let the People Rule" Propaganda in Speech to Legislators.

Boston, March 19.—A declaration in favor of preferential primaries for the presidency under certain conditions in the coming campaign was made by President Taft in the chief of a series of speeches delivered in Boston.

The president made known his attitude on this question in an address before the Massachusetts legislature. He also scored the recall of judges and the recall of judicial decisions.

President Taft's declaration in favor of a primary constitutes his answer to the challenge of Senator Dixon, campaign manager for Colonel Roosevelt, in regard to holding primaries in the several states.

"Wherever full and fair notice of the election can be given," he said, "wherever adequate election safeguards can be thrown around to protect a preferential primary for the presidency, wherever the constitution of the United States permits its being made applicable to the present election, I favor it and welcome it."

An hour or two earlier the president informed a committee from the Massachusetts Peace society that he did not intend to give up his fight for arbitration treaties. He said that while he had formulated no definite plan as to how he should secure such treaties, he means to keep the arbitration idea to the fore and is awaiting the return of Secretary Knox from his tour of the Latin American republics.

In his fourth address of the day, delivered before the Pilgrim Publicity association, President Taft touched upon the relations of the government to business. He thought the government which helps and does the least to hurt business was the best of all.

The necessity of publicity in the conduct of business affecting the public was spoken of.

Mr. Taft brought a green silk shawl rock from Washington and wore it proudly in the lapel of his coat.

The president was greeted by a number of city officials when he arrived in Boston. Over his coffee and rolls at the City club he made his first address of the day, avoiding public questions. At the City club he was joined by his son, Robert, a student at the Harvard law school. From the City club the president was driven to the Hotel Somerset, where he was the city's guest at a formal breakfast.

A little later in the same hotel the president addressed the Massachusetts Peace society.

The next visit was at the Massachusetts state house, where the principal speech of the day was made. As the president entered the house chamber, which was crowded with people, he received an ovation. The cheering lasted for several minutes.

At the conclusion of his state house speech the president took luncheon with the Pilgrim Publicity association, after which he went to South Boston and reviewed the Evacuation Day parade. Later he met the officers of the Taft League of Massachusetts.

Today the president will make a brief tour of southern New Hampshire, speaking at Nashua, Manchester and Concord.

In his speech before the general court of Massachusetts, which is the legal term for the legislature, President Taft made his first personal reply to the challenge to preferential primaries issued some time ago by Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's manager. President Taft did not refer to the challenge, however.

The president made a rather pointed reference to the proposition "let the people rule" and the recall of judges and judicial decisions.

"Irresponsible assaults upon either in intemperate language or on baseless assumptions of corruption or bias, or incompetency, made by those whose statements have influence with any part of our people, are a serious menace to enduring government," said the president.

ALLEN GANG HIDE IN MOUNTAINS

Sidna Edwards Said to Be Surrounded.

Hillsville, Va., March 19.—Somewhere in the mountain fastnesses of the Blue Ridge, Sidna Allen and his gang of outlaw murderers are still defying the laws of Virginia.

The moonshiners are not in Devil's Den, as was generally believed, but high up among the laurels of the Virginia wilderness the band is leading the posse into the secret recesses of the mountain country, the hiding places of which are known to them alone.

Captain Davant, of the state militia in charge of the guard at Hillsville, received word that the posse in the mountains had passed Devil's Den, but saw no traces of the outlaws. The posse, however, did not attempt to explore any of the caves.

A dispatch from Pulaski, Va., said that one of the posses had surrounded Sidna Edwards, a nephew of Sidna Allen, leader of the clan, and Hillsville is anxiously awaiting the news of his capture. It is said that Edwards fled from his home without his rifle or other arms at the approach of the posse and ran into a laurel thicket, which was immediately surrounded. Edwards has a lame foot, and his travel over the rugged mountain paths and through the forests will be greatly hampered.

When Edwards is taken the officers believe they can learn from him with certainty the whereabouts of the gang. Sunday night a posse and revenue officers captured a still and ninety gallons of moonshine whisky at the home of Floyd Allen and two stills at the home of the Edwards boys, near Hillsville. The stills were wrecked and hundreds of gallons of whisky were poured on the ground.

The United States army hospital corps at San Antonio was rushed to the yards, and police, ambulances and Young Men's Christian association workers were organized into rescue bands to dig out the dead and try to save the lives of the wounded. So mangled were the bodies of some of the victims that there seemed no hope of piecing the fragments together sufficiently to identify them.

The victims were said to be largely men who had been employed to take the places of striking employees. These men have been working at the Southern Pacific shops in San Antonio ever since the shopmen's strike began several months ago. They were from southern and western states.

The locomotive was standing in the yards near the shops and the explosion came without warning. Parts of the roundhouse collapsed and several rail buildings in the shop enclosure were wrecked, including part of the machine shops. Locomotives in the roundhouse were smashed as if hit with huge mallets. The roundhouse caught fire.

The half-ton jacket of the exploded locomotive boiler dropped between two houses on Duval street, several blocks distant, while the tender was hurled several hundred feet and twisted into a big shapeless chunk of steel.

The explosion came at a time when there were a number of machinists, roundhouse "groomen" and track tenders working nearby.

An artillery charge of canister and traps could not have scattered deadly missiles any more effectively among the nearby tollers than the explosion. The huge steel and iron locomotive was torn asunder like a fire cracker and its fragments scattered like bullets.

Parts of bodies were picked up a distance of 300 to 500 feet, and windows half a mile away were shattered.

Dr. Mary Walker is weaker. New York, March 19.—Dr. Mary E. Walker, the woman who has insisted for years on her right to wear men's garb, became somewhat weaker from the bronchial attack from which she is suffering. She is at the Presbyterian hospital and is under her own care. She is eighty-two years old.

Girl Skater Fatally Hurt.

Allentown, Pa., March 19.—Roller skating on the streets, Dorothy, a young daughter of former Policeman Charles Leyh, collided with an express wagon, was run over and fatally injured.

Vote on Pension Bill March 28.

Washington, March 19.—The senate agreed to vote on the general service pension bill on the legislative day of Thursday, March 28. The pending measure was offered by Senator Smoot and favorably reported by the pensions committee as a substitute for the house "dollar a day" pension bill. The Smoot bill is estimated to carry an increased expenditure of more than $24,000,000 annually.

MANY KILLED AS BOILER EXPLODES

Twenty-Seven Dead When Locomotive Blows Up.

MANY BODIES TORN TO PIECES

The Victims Were Strike-Breakers, and Force of Explosion Leads to Suspicion of Dynamite.

San Antonio, Texas, March 19.—Twenty-seven men were killed, more injured and several buildings were wrecked when the boiler of a locomotive exploded in the local yards of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Closely following the news that the explosion had occurred came many rumors, which would not down, that dynamite had caused the great loss of life and property. Investigation was started at once, the police working even while the bodies of the dead were being taken from the yards and the injured being cared for. Detectives were placed at work and a search for clues started.

The police of San Antonio declared that the disaster was a rival of the blowing up of the Times building at Los Angeles, Cal. There a dynamite explosion, for which the McNamara brothers are serving long terms in a California prison, after confessing that they caused the disaster, killed twenty-three persons.

Robert K. Lipscomb, foreman of the shops, was picked from his feet, hurled thirty feet and rose, semi-conscious, grasping in his hands the hat of a dead man.

Mrs. B. S. Gillis, sixty-two years old, in her home seven blocks away was probably fatally injured when the front end of the locomotive crashed into the roof, demolishing three rooms and continuing through to the ground floor of the house.

Inside the machine and blacksmith shops the greatest loss of life was noted. Here fifteen or more men were killed, portions of their bodies being found jammed in crevices in the roof and sides or entangled in machinery. A great portion of the building's walls fell inward, burying twelve men.

Among the shrieks of the injured after the explosion arose the roar of flaming oil from the feed pipe through which the oil burning locomotives fed their tenders. This pipe had broken and ignited. The flow of oil was finally cut off. This possibility of a devastating fire for several minutes added to the horror of the situation. The locomotive stood almost in the center of a square formed by four buildings, and there was imminent danger of the nearest of them taking fire from the flames which spouted from the engine's broken oil pipe.

The United States army hospital corps at San Antonio was rushed to the yards, and police, ambulances and Young Men's Christian association workers were organized into rescue bands to dig out the dead and try to save the lives of the wounded. So mangled were the bodies of some of the victims that there seemed no hope of piecing the fragments together sufficiently to identify them.

The victims were said to be largely men who had been employed to take the places of striking employees. These men have been working at the Southern Pacific shops in San Antonio ever since the shopmen's strike began several months ago. They were from southern and western states.

The locomotive was standing in the yards near the shops and the explosion came without warning. Parts of the roundhouse collapsed and several rail buildings in the shop enclosure were wrecked, including part of the machine shops. Locomotives in the roundhouse were smashed as if hit with huge mallets. The roundhouse caught fire.

The half-ton jacket of the exploded locomotive boiler dropped between two houses on Duval street, several blocks distant, while the tender was hurled several hundred feet and twisted into a big shapeless chunk of steel.

The explosion came at a time when there were a number of machinists, roundhouse "groomen" and track tenders working nearby.

An artillery charge of canister and traps could not have scattered deadly missiles any more effectively among the nearby tollers than the explosion. The huge steel and iron locomotive was torn asunder like a fire cracker and its fragments scattered like bullets.

Parts of bodies were picked up a distance of 300 to 500 feet, and windows half a mile away were shattered.

TREATMENT FOR ROUPY TURKEYS.

Wild turkeys are tough as iron; tame turkeys are soft. Inbreeding, ill feeding and breeding for size have reduced their stamina, and they can't stand exposure like their ancestral king of the woods. If not often blown by a blizzard off the sour apple tree, the wind ruffles their feathers, hits them in the chest, and then come colds, catarrh, roup.

The turk in the picture caught its roup from chickens, that caught their roup in a henhouse with a damp, rank earth floor.

Drafts, damp, foul air for roup among the feathered tribe. Roup runs about the same course with turks as with hens.

There's that shaking of head, sniffles, clear bubble on nose, watery discharge from nostrils, colds. Then discharge turns whitish, begins to thicken, face begins to swell, bird starts to breathe through mouth (catarrh). At last the discharge turns yellow, smells, plugs nostrils, head swells, eyes close, breath rattles, bird stands with open mouth (roup).

Place a turkey with such symptoms in a comfortable place, have an asstant to hold the bird and treat as follows:

Dip feather in kerosene and swab cleft of mouth; open nostrils, cleanse with feather and gently press swellings on side of face, and pus will run from nostrils.

Then spray nostrils, eyes, cleft sores, with the following:

Boric acid 1 ounce
Zinc sulphate 1 dram
Warm water 1 pint

Spray twice a day, give a grain quinine pill from three to five nights in succession, according to severity of attack, and season the moist mash with ginger.

We have found no better remedy for colds, catarrh, roup among the feathered tribe than the above.

DON'TS.

Don't catch the broiler fever. You may have a broiler explosion.

Don't forget that private trade is best and in most communities easy to secure and hold if you sell quality.

Don't forget that cabbage must be fed moderately at first, and no new item to the ration should be fed strong at first.

Don't buy cut bone when a cutter can be bought reasonably. Bone is cheap, and you may cut your own and sell to your neighbors at a profit.

Don't use a hatchet on men or hen. A hatchet lick just now and then might knock sense into bullhead men, but it is rather best to keep that old spite hatchet buried deep.

The Black Giant is the name of a breed of poultry that is making a good record in several eastern states, few if any having as yet been brought west of Pennsylvania. The cock birds weigh nine or ten pounds and the hens from seven to eight. Unlike some other black feathered breeds, they are yellow skinned and have black legs free from feathers. The breed is hardy and easily kept. The Black Giants are favorites in several eastern markets for caponizing and usually top the market in this class.

Brood Sows in Winter.

The brood sow is the farmer's productive investment on which he can draw for future dividends. Like other productive property, the sow will make better returns if she is properly cared for. If on pasture with shade and water she can care for herself pretty well in the summer season, but she must depend upon her owner for every comfort and her daily food in the winter. The size of the litters, as well as the vigor of the spring pigs, will depend upon the winter care of the sows to a very large extent, and animal comfort means success. If the sow is not perfectly comfortable at all times she will not do her best. If she roots up the ground, tears up her pen or eats pigs or chickens it simply shows that she wants something which she will not do so well. Her comfort, then, is a prime necessity, and this should have the owner's careful attention, especially during the winter season.

Warm the Drinking Water.

The question of watering animals in winter is one of the most important to consider. If the animals are compelled to drink ice water in cold weather they will not take enough to answer the needs of the body and to aid in digestion, and derangement of the digestive apparatus is pretty sure to follow. Impaction of the stomach or costiveness may come from lack of sufficient water, which the animal simply cannot drink through a hole in the ice in freezing weather. Give the sows a chance to drink often, at least three times a day.

Roughly speaking, it takes a depth of from twelve to fifteen inches of snow to make one inch of water. Again, one inch of rainfall will moisten the earth to the depth of about twelve inches.

Switzerland has 2,100 dairies, which employ on the average four people each. Of the total number of dairies 1,400 are engaged in the production of Emmenthal cheese, a brand that constitutes a large share of the cheese exports of the little country.

Dynamite is queer stuff, and there are a whole lot of things about it that are difficult to understand. Unlike a good many other substances, there does not seem to be much uniformity in the laws which govern its ignition and explosion. Often the slightest jar or the application of heat to it is sufficient to set it off. In a case related to the writer the other day a chunk of the stuff fell off a wagon on which it was being hauled and a few minutes later was run over by a disk pulverizer without exploding. Again, a chunk of it put in a fire will burn quietly without exploding. We would not advise making this experiment, however.

The farmer who totes flowers to his sweetheart in the courting days should not object to helping his wife weed the flower bed once in awhile.

The Profit in Cows.

Under average conditions it takes about 150 pounds of butter fat to pay for a cow's feed one year. It is easy to see, then, that many of the cows in this country are not giving anything beyond an amount merely covering the cost of their feed. The fat that is yielded above that figure is real profit.

Fooled the Doctor.

"I remember one time," said a comedian, "when a medicine show came to our town, and father went to the performance. As you probably know, it used to be the custom of the medicine 'doctor' to try to make the audience think he was merely selling his medicine to advertise it. Such was the case the night my father attended the show. The 'doctor' when he began telling of the virtues of the cure-all declared that since he was merely advertising the medicine, he would positively sell but one bottle to a person. It would be impossible to buy more than one. That night my father reached home very much elated. He came into the sitting room and pulled a bottle of the medicine out of each side pocket of his coat.

"I got ahead of the darned sinner!" he said. "What's that?" I asked. "Why, that fellow said he wouldn't sell us more than one bottle apiece but (here he shook his head and smiled) I fooled him. I got two."

"How did you do it?" I asked. "Why, darn him," replied my father, "I bought one. Then I went out side, took off my coat and come back in an' bought another. The blamed chump never knewed me."
